PROGRESS

For students and local sidewalk supervisors alike, Fairmont State College has become a study in contrasts as it progresses with a full-scale remodeling and building of the most modern institutions in the state. The wooded 80-acre campus is pockmarked with excavations, contracting equipment and supplies as FSC enters its eleventh month of building. The over-all project ranges from remodeling the Administration Building to improvements at Rosier Field. In commenting on the program, Dr. Eston K. Freoster, president, noted that "... change is part of creative effort." The college is undergoing the greatest period of transition in its 96-year history, he said, and through current improvement to its physical plant will be able to accommodate a larger student body and play a more vital role in West Virginia's program of higher education. He explained, "Here at FSC we are attempting to create an atmosphere that fosters both living and learning, not only for the student of today, but for future generations as well."

JOHN FITZGERALD KENNEDY

In Memoriam

There was a sound of laughter; in a moment, it was no more. And, so, she took a ring from her finger and placed it in his hands.

There was a wit in a man neither young nor old; but a wit full of an old man's wisdom and of a child's wisdom, and, then, in a moment it was no more. And, so, she took a ring from her finger and placed it in his hands.

There was a man marked with the scars of his love of country, a body active with the surge of a life far, far from spent and, in a moment, it was no more. And, so, she took a ring from her finger and placed it in his hands.

There was a father with a little boy, a little girl and a joy of each in the other. In a moment it was no more. And, so, she took a ring from her finger and placed it in his hands.

There was a husband who asked much and gave much, and, out of the giving and the asking, wove with a woman what could not be broken in life, and in a moment it was no more. And, so, she took a ring from her finger and placed it in his hands, and kissed him and closed the lid of a coffin.

A piece of each of us died at that moment. Yet, in death he gave of himself to us. He gave us of a good heart from which laughter came. He gave us of a profound wit, from which a great leadership emerged. He gave us of a kindness and a strength found fused into a human courage to seek peace without fear.

He gave us of his love that we, too, in turn, might give. He gave that we might give of ourselves, that we might give to one another until there would be no room at all, for the bigotry, the hatred, prejudice and the arrogance which converged in that moment of horror to strike him down.

In leaving us — these gifts, John Fitzgerald Kennedy, President of the United States, leaves with us. Will we take them, Mr. President? Will we have, now, the sense and the responsibility and the courage to take them?

— Sen. Mike Mansfield, Dem., Montana

In Memoriam

God, in His infinite wisdom, removed Paul C. "Pi" Davis from our midst August 2, 1963. "Pi," as he was familiarly known throughout the county and state, died as he lived — fighting courageously. His death, despite the knowledge that he was critically ill, came as a severe shock to his myriads of friends and associates. Mary Elizabeth, his wife, whose love and devotion was so highly treasured by "Pi" during his fruitful life, was by his side to the end. To her, all of "Pi's" friends extend their most heartfelt sympathy.

In many ways "Pi" was a self-made man, and consequently he deserves all the more credit for his many accomplishments. A fine athlete in his youth at Barrackville High School and at Glenville College, "Pi" worked his way through school and college and subsequently earned his Master's Degree at Columbia University. Throughout his long and colorful career as a teacher and coach, hundreds of boys were inspired by his example, and the list of successful coaches he trained is impressive. To thousands of Marion County children over the years, "Pi" was a familiar sight as he visited the playgrounds of which he was so proud. Truly, the Marion County Playground Association is a living monument to him and to his indefatigable efforts on behalf of the youth of the County. Untold numbers of youngsters have participated in this program since its inception, and its steady growth speaks for itself.

Working upward through the ranks of the Marion County public school system, "Pi" was convinced that good teachers were the key to good schools, and as President of the Marion County Education Association and later as a member of the Board of Education, he consistently championed the cause of the classroom teacher. He was, as all know, one of the most progressive members of a school board which was noteworthy for its efforts to elevate educational standards in this county. Few people are fully aware of the endless hours the Board has devoted to the school system, and relatively few appreciate the inherent difficulties involved in such a public-spirited enterprise. Once the decision to seek a bond issue was made "Pi" characteristically gave the fight everything he had, although he realized that there was no ideal solution to our problems. In defeat, "Pi" resolved to fight even harder in the next round and gave of himself wholeheartedly in planning for a new approach.

Throughout his intensely active career, "Pi" was never too busy to say "hello" to one and all, and his sunny demeanor never deserted him. His friends were legion, and his influence upon this county will live forever. As a teacher and coach at the College, hundreds of students knew and loved him. "Pi's" opponents in sports respected him not only as a "scrapper" but also as a gentleman and sportsman.

The philosopher, Francis Bacon, once said, "Life without an object to pursue is a languid and tiresome thing." "Pi" had such an object and gave everything he had to the betterment of young people. Certainly his life was not a "languid and tiresome thing," but rather a life filled with high purpose — a life devoted exclusively to the betterment of his fellow man. "Pi" Davis was a gentleman and a scholar and his memory will be forever green.

BUILDING FOR THE FUTURE

Administration Building

FSC's Administration Building, oldest building on the campus, is undergoing a two-stage remodeling program that is scheduled for completion early in 1964. Approximately $350,000 has been allocated for the improvements which include an enlarged auditorium, with new floor and seats, larger stage area, air-conditioning and redecoration; a new heating system and remodeled classroom facilities.

Library

Immediate plans call for the construction of a Fine Arts Building to be located opposite the Fairmont State College Library. This will also be designed to house FSC's new division of Technical Education, the only program of its kind north of the Kanowha River, and classes for the new two-year Nursing School that is scheduled to open next fall.

Women's Residence Hall

Construction began in November on the new $550,000 dormitory for women adjacent to Morrow Hall that is designed to accommodate 150 students. It will also include a house-mothers suite and student lounge with kitchen and is expected to be ready for occupancy next September. The State Board of Education has earmarked $60,000 for built-in furniture and $40,000 for movable furnishings.

Campus Beautification

Major improvements completed during the first stages of the program included campus landscaping which involved the planting of several thousand Norway spruce and white pine trees obtained from the State Department of Natural Resources. In addition, resurfacing campus drives and parking lots entailed a total expense of $12,553.92. The work, involving some 156,000 square feet, included the painting of parking and traffic lines.

Rosier Field

Rosier Field, the college football stadium, has been the site of a major renovation program. Foundations have been dug for a concession stand and rest room facilities, while a major part of the tileblock exterior has been constructed for an ultra-modern press box.

During the summer months drainage problems on the field were solved with the removal of top soil and placing of an 18-inch crown with French drains. New seats were installed and the entire patron area repainted. Immediate plans are underway for a building to house athletic equipment.

ADMINISTRATION

Perhaps it is only when the yearbook comes out that most of those connected with college life become aware of the machine-sound word, administration, and of its top position at the helm. Certainly in any persons-filled college day there are many signs that boards of directors, presidents, and deans are in their places and are conducting, initiating, controlling affairs. They are easily found, affably met, authoritatively courteous — often almost pathetically non-official. In everyday terms they do not “run the show”; they are part of it; they try, so far as humanely possible, to make it a good show and to see that it produces solid, exemplary results. And it is not difficult to discern a special quality in their persons (thinking now of the college milieu), the quality of rectitude, which their positions of trust help to engender. When they sit in their places they are higher than their ordinary selves.

College persons who have high place assume dedications which are literally awesome in character and scope. The tradition of learning must be keenly felt and actively promoted; the tradition of the college must be a guiding factor in shaping the future; the tides and currents of contemporary life, of pressures, of dangers, of good chances, must require a constant alertness; and always the sacred, highest good of that human being, the student (in whose behalf the entire enterprise is maintained), must demand daily, sensitive, creative handling.

Our college rejoices in having a vital, progressive leadership. Creativity and purpose mark the present launchings into the future. But it is not blind machinery that is on the go. It is imaginative, human-powered motivation toward the fulfillment of daily, on-the-spot needs as well as of the creation of a grand design for the years ahead.

CLASSES

Practically everyone except the Bushman and the Hottentot knows that unlike Gaul, College is divided into four parts — the freshman part, the sophomore part, the junior part, the senior part. It is not a classless society, but there is nothing particularly invidious in the fact. Upperclassmen, especially those who have been given their "come-uppance" by sundry ladies, really take a shine to the fresh material in the first-year class; and there are many other crossings of class lines to the point where a newcomer need not think of himself as being obnoxiously "lowly."

Each class is "classy" in its own way and is made so by time, by study, by luck, by genes, by heaven, by the press of the crowd behind.

FRESHMEN OFFICERS — Mike Alexander, Sergeant-at-arms; Bill Glover, Vice president; Linda Bush, Secretary-Treasurer; Dan Laney, President.

The Freshman Class

Freshmen are the opposite of stalemen. They bring to the looming edifice of learning an incredible daring, a blithe hopefulness, a neatly tailored humility, a tingling excitement in having matriculated into the world of the Big Chance. In spite of sharp, swallowed-down misgivings, their stance is resolve itself — foot-ready, eyes high gazing, jaw muscles clenched. They know they have entered the mighty world of Adulthood, are subject to a new dimension, a realistic "Pike's Peak or Bust" challenge.

These second-year people, the "saphs", are — to put it bluntly — survivals. They have emerged from a year's daily battles with demanding chores, academic and otherwise, with imperious generalissimas of all sorts, with personal weaknesses and insufficiencies. They are chastened, perhaps a bit cynical, but they are tougher than they were and better able to handle their assignments, their careers. They know a lot more about the life of the mind, the life about them, and the individual life which is theirs.

The Junior Class

Like Mon, who was made a little lower than the angles, juniors are only a little lower than the fourth-class people. They are Getting Up There. It is quite true that they have cost aside hobbledehoydom, crudeness, cynicism, superficiality. They now begin, not only to study for the love of Mike, but to study for the genuine love of learning: they begin to be true scholars and true people. If they are not yet 14 caret, at least they are 12. Juniors begin to justify all the effort, all the money, all the hope put into the educational enterprise. They rise up early in the morning, and they shine.

The Senior Class

Now a slight trembling seizes us as we contemplate these people poised upon a new brink. Really, they have accomplished herculean labors: they have lasted, outlasted. All jitters are gone: they are charming, reliable, quietly glad for themselves as having "measured up." They take the adulation of their friends with grateful bearing, but they know how soon they must win in new enterprises, novel crises. As we look at them we hear the buzz of one question in our reflective minds: Has the system done enough for them? May it be so!

In Memoriam

ANCIL JORDEN

I am the resurrection and life. He who believes in Me, though he is dead, will live on, and whoever has life, and has faith in Me, to all eternity cannot die.

— John, XI, 25-27.

LEADERSHIP, HONOR AND SERVICE

In every good college (community of older and younger Givers and Receivers, Finders and Keepers, Out-steppers and Other-steppers) there are two markedly grand fellowships of action: the lustrous faculty performers and the lustrous student performers. It is to the student Out-steppers in distinctive attainment that the editors of THE MOUND devote this section of the yearbook for 1964.

When young people who are generally still adolescents rise before the crowd with a natural talent for knowing what the crowd must be asked to do and for knowing how the crowd can be directed to do it, all of us must feel a tingle of admiration that such young zeal and courage and self-giving should exist, should always be coming on to make the exciting enterprise move. Here, for example, are student "governors," young men and women alike, who seem always to act like veterans from the moment they are selected by their compatriots. Here are energetic publications people, the editors especially. There are many, many more, all worthy of special regard: the scholars, the personable in the all-around sense, the greatly talented in the arts, sciences, the sports activities, the "Who's Who" of the college world. They provide motility: they serve, they lead, they shed luster. They have learned how to learn by doing more than the routine, the good little bit more.

For college is everywhere life-meaningful, world-meaningful, not just campus-meaningful. An intense little sphere, it is symbol of the intense larger sphere in which it is embedded. It provides space for victories of the best kinds, for they are the strengths of the future. It contradicts what the later cynical Scott Fitzgerald once wrote to a friend: "The thing that lies behind all great careers from Shakespeare's to Lincoln's is the sense that life is a cheat and its conditions those of defeat."

Bill Glover, Joseph Smith, Jock Canrod, John Schraeder, Sam Roder, Lindo Orr, Eugene Pellillo, Kay Davis, Dan Laney.

Student Council

The Student Council is the executive board of the student government organization. It consists of five student body officers, all class presidents, all class vice-presidents, one member elected by the honorary and professional organizations, one member elected by the non-fraternity group and one faculty representative appointed by the President of Fairmont State College.

One of the principal assignments of the Student Council is to meet at the beginning of each semester to determine the allocation of the student activity funds among the various campus activities and organizations. The budgets prepared are then published so that all students may know for what purposes their fees are being used.

Blazers

Blazers, Senior Woman's Honorary, was organized in 1947. To be elected as a member of the Blazers is a distinction highly honored by every girl at Fairmont State College. Each year outstanding senior girls are elected to this honorary women's organization. Blazers is based on the qualities of scholarship, leadership, loyalty, and integrity. In addition to these requirements, candidates must have earned at least a 2.85 average by the end of the fall term of their junior year. The Blazers sponsor the Big and Little Sister Program, which is designated to assist the freshman women in adjusting to college life, and with the Pyramid Society sponsor the annual Honor Assembly.

BLAZERS Brenda Reese, Sandy Waugaman Rogers, Georgiana Bissett.

Pi Alpha Phi

Pi Alpha Phi received recognition as an organization on campus in December, 1961. The object of this organization shall be to promote interest in the study of modern foreign languages at Fairmont State College and by means of selecting students to membership serve as a reward for their worthy efforts in this field. Any regularly enrolled student of this college who has completed this school's equivalent of nine semester hours of a modern foreign language with an average of 3.000 and has completed at least forty-eight hours of regular college work, and furthermore who has an overall 3.000 average may be elected to membership.

Each year Fairmont State College honors a select few by naming them to Who's Who. They must have held some responsible office while in school, have given unselfish help to the school, and have good qualities of citizenship and character. They are also expected to be a credit to the school and to themselves in years to come. Students are selected by an impartial council of seven juniors and sophomores and six faculty members once a year. Those chosen are then listed in Who's Who Among Students in American Colleges and Universities and given certificates on recognition day.

Freshman Counselors

Freshman counselors' freshman week is the time of action for the hard working group. Their membership includes the five Student Council elected officers and all past counselors who are in good standing concerning leadership, citizenship, and scholarship. The rest of the quota is open to anyone in the student body who qualifies. The final selection is based upon academic standing, leadership qualities, character, citizenship, and school service.

Die Wissenschaftler

Die Wissenschaftler is a strictly academic, honorary, recognizing no specific discipline. In order to qualify for membership a student who has completed thirty-two semester hours of college work must maintain an overall three and one-third grade point average and take a fixed majority of his work in academic areas.

Kappa Delta Pi

Kappa Delta Pi, an Education Honorary was founded in 1911 by the University of Illinois. It was established at Fairmont State College in 1931. There are chapters located in all leading colleges and universities totalling over 400. Leadership, scholarship, and character are but a few requirements necessary for membership. An overall three point average must be maintained including a three point average in the education field.

KAPPA DELTA PI: FIRST ROW: Sandy Rogers, historian; Mary Frances Simon, Vice-President; Linda Huber, President; Shelia Blair, Vice-President; Frank DiMaria, Treasurer; SECOND ROW: Jerilyan Curtis, Betty Kuhn, Brenda Reese.

Lambda Delta Lambda

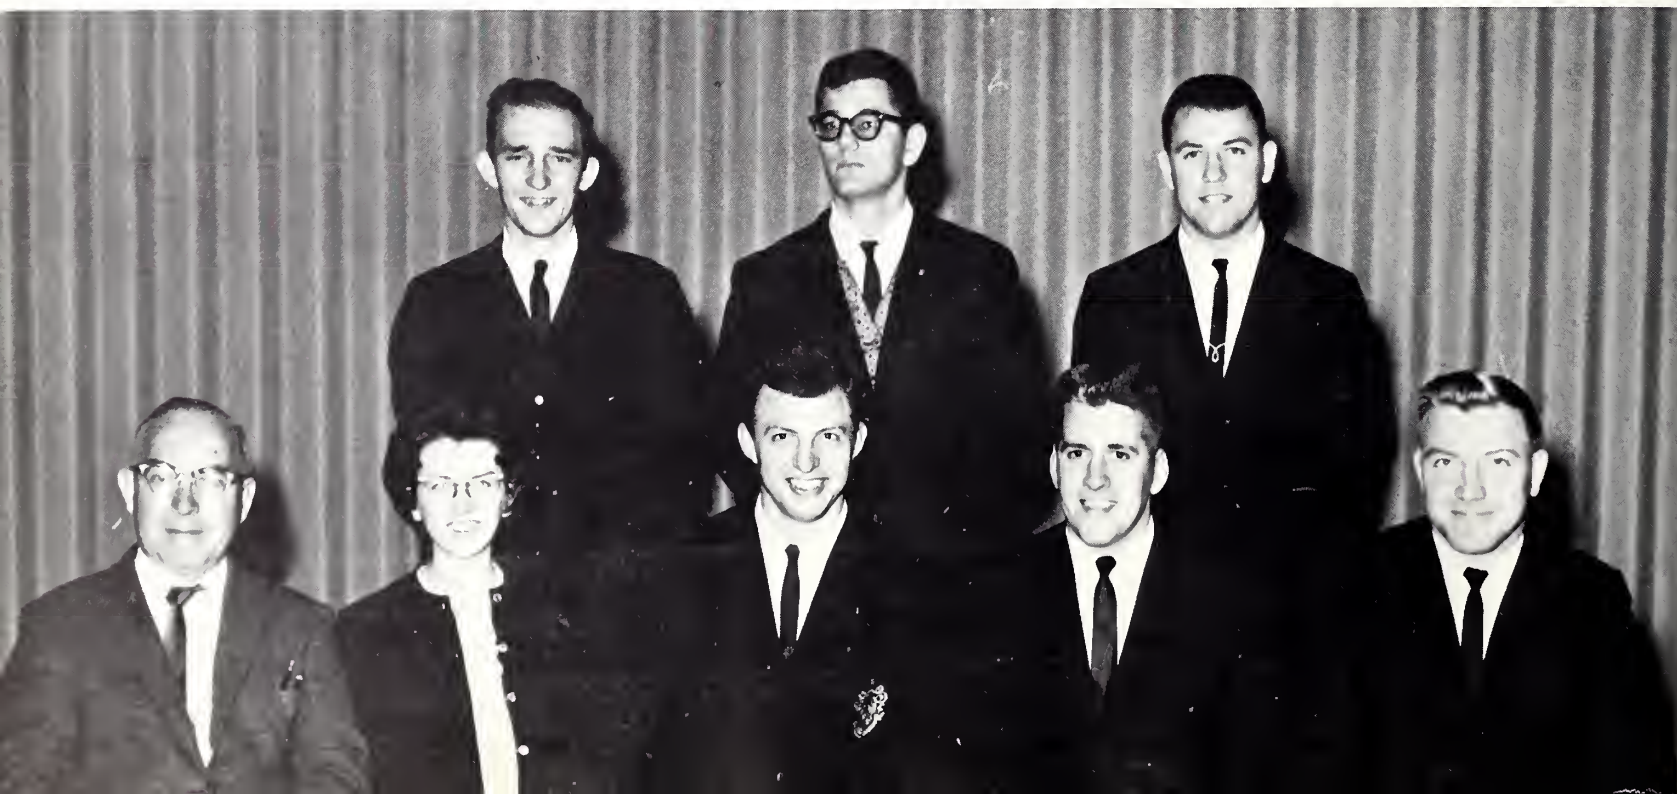

Lambda Delta Lambda, national physical science honorary, was founded at Fairmont State College in 1925. In order to qualify for membership in this select group, a student must have an overall 3.00 grade average and a 3.00 average in at least 14 hours of chemistry and physics.

Lambda Delta Lambda sponsored an assembly program on "Radio Astronomy" in November and the Annual Science Day for local high school students in March.

Beta Beta Beta

Beta Beta Beta, National Biology Honorary, was founded in 1922 at the University of Oklahoma. Its objectives are scholarship and the promotion of biological research. Each year the Beta Beta Beta chapter at Fairmont State College sponsors a National Science Day to which students of area high schools are invited.

Pyramid Society

The purposes of the Pyramid Society are the recognition of the most representative men in all phases of college life, and to bring together members of the faculty and student body of the institution on a basis of mutual interest, understanding, and helpfulness. The ultimate goal of the society shall be affiliation with a nationally recognized honor society.

The qualifications are scholarship, honor, fellowship, character, and leadership. Scholarship is the primary consideration for membership. The minimum requirements are: one full academic year of residence, rank in the highest twenty-five percent among male students in his class, to be based upon the whole preceding academic record, and a mass total of fifteen points according to the point system.

PYRAMID SOCIETY: John Schroeder, President; John Schneider, Vice-President; Kenneth Miller, Secretary; Sam Securro, Treasurer.

Kappa Gamma

Kappa Gamma, the Fairmont State College debate honorary, was reestablished this year as a part of the debate club. The honorary is open to those college debaters who have participated with skill in a minimum of five rounds of inter-collegiate debate. The officers of the debate club must have qualified for membership in Kappa Gamma. They are: President, James R. Oldaker; Vice-President, Howard Griffith, and Secretary, Edward Nelson.

Morrow Hall, women's dormitory, was completed in the fall of 1922. It was named for Mrs. N. R. C. Morrow, a highly respected teacher in the English Department. In 1958 two new wings were added to the dormitory plus the remodeling of the col-

Pence Hall Officers

Pence Hall, men's dormitory, derived its name from the late Dr. John W. Pence, one-time president of Fairmont State College. It was through his efforts which made possible the building of this dormitory by federal loan. Pence Hall was completed in 1959 and is capable of housing 132 men. It offers many facilities for the men including a spacious lounge and a large parking area. The men have set up their own government and a Pence Hall Club where they plan many of their social functions.

lege cafeteria, which is a part of Morrow Hall. It is capable of housing 122 women students. As Mrs. Pearl Brown, the housemother, says, "Morrow Hall is the women students' home away from home."

Alpha Psi Omega

National recognition has been given to the dramatics department of Fairmont State College through the founding of Alpha Psi Omega, the national dramatics honorary, in 1925 by Dr. Paul Opp. The Alpha Chapter was founded to promote interest in dramatic productions through the presenting of drama to the students and the community.

Members of the honorary are chosen through their participation and interest in dramatic activities.

Alpha Alpha Alpha

Founded October 22, 1958 by the members of the Business Department and students of Business Administration, the Alpha Alpha Alpha business honorary was organized to promote interest in the study of business at Fairmont State College, to promote a more cordial and amiable relationship among the members, and to encourage and recognize a high standard of scholarship in business subjects. The honorary's functions consist of dinner meetings at which a member of management or labor speaks before the group, acquainting the student with the type of people he will be working with in the future and creates a better relationship between the college and business students and leaders of management and labor throughout the area.

Epsilon Pi Tau

Epsilon Pi Tau, an Industrial Arts and Industrial Vocational Education, International Honorary Society organized in 1920, was installed the Alpha Upsilon Chapter at Fairmont State College on March 29, 1955 by its founder Dr. William E. Warner. Epsilon Pi Tau is strictly a professional organization with membership limited by grades, (B average) character, and promise of professional growth. All members are responsible for one meeting, expected to attend state meetings, and are hosts to a state meeting. Its purpose is the professional development of promising young leaders in Industrial Arts and Industrial Vocational Education. About one/half of its members enter the teaching field.

Philosophical Society

The Philosophical Society was formed this year with Wayne Gregg as advisor. The purpose of the Philosophical Society is to give students an opportunity to discuss intellectual subjects outside the classroom. The student feels free to express his opinion to other students and faculty members. This new group challenges students to think and express themselves freely. Officers are: William Shaffer, President; Jeannie Brewer, Secretary, Carolyn Sessions Graham, Treasurer, Wayne Gregg, Advisor.

ORGANIZATIONS

An old joke describes how three men shipwrecked on a desert island will lose no time in calling a meeting to elect a president, vice-president, and treasurer.

Of course the organizing impulse (for whatever purpose) can become a mania; it can develop harmful "side effects." Accordingly, the mind of today's "organization man" is receiving a great deal of critical attention, some of it not on the credit side. For organizations, whose number and strenuous solidification and expansivity tie our society together in a complex network, can become imperialistic and self-deified in their drive for total self-realization. Those who serve in such organizations may lose themselves wholly in serving their imperial power; they may develop a special "slave" ethic, not a wholesome patriotism, not a catholicity of insight, not a keeping up of integrity. Bigots and fanatics can — and often do — result.

On the other hand, in some organizations men and women do enlarge their characters and abilities as well as learn constructive ways to serve society. It is in the good college that the finest of human values have a high chance of being mobilized and preserved. In activities outside the classroom routines, many find themselves identified with stimulating projects; they "play" with learning as if it were a game or hobby. In the kinds of causes which enlist the allegiance of college people is seen, unmistakable, one of the elements in a college's real self. When the members of groups, in focusing interest upon worthy goals, enjoy each other's company, enjoy working informally together, love terpsichorean dancing, for example, or bird-watching, or visiting museums, or play-acting, or trying new recipes, or "paliticking," or whatever, why this is enabling an easy human spirit to play wholesomely in the areas natural to college life.

Here, then, in this section are Fairmont State's organizations recognized: MOUND editors list and display them with pleasure and pride.

Debate

The F.S.C. Debate Club was re-organized in the fall of 1963 after a ten-year inactive period. The organization under the direction of Miss Thrall, debate coach, sponsors inter-collegiate debate contests between F.S.C. and other inter-collegiate teams. Members of the F.S.C. Debate Team and Kappa Gamma, Debate Honorary, are active members of the Debate Club as are any other interested students. The F.S.C. Team has participated in the following inter-collegiate meetings: The Kanawha County Bar Association Tournament; University of Pittsburgh Cross-examination Tournament; Washington and Jefferson Novice Tournament; Marietta College Tournament; W.V.U. North-South Tournament; W.V.U. Inter-Collegiate Speech Tournament; University of Pittsburgh Novice Tournament. The Debate Club has been host to W.Va. University Debators, W.Va.

Debators and Waynesburg College Debators during the inter-collegiate season.

Lettermen

Lettermen, Alpha Lambda Sigma, was organized in 1930. It now includes all members of intercollegiate sports who have qualified for a letter. In its own right, Alpha Lambda Sigma is an honor for athletes.

The coaches of each sport will decide on who a letterman will be. In major sports, the participant must appear in half of the contest to qualify as a letterman. In individual sports, the participant must earn a set number of points to qualify. Faculty advisor is Deacon Duvall.

Independents

This social organization received its first recognition as the Independents on Fairmont State College campus in 1963. The Independents serve as a social organization for those students who do not care to join a Greek organization.

The Independents meet every Monday night. They participate in the Homecoming parade, have special meetings with guest speakers, and sponsor dances on various occasions.

INDEPENDENTS: FIRST ROW: Lee A. Glodwin (Sgt. of Arms), Shirley Gouer (Secretary-Treasurer), Solly Moore (Vice President), Jack Conrod, Jr.

Industrial Arts

The Industrial Arts Club, a local organization with national affiliation through the American Vocational Association, had its beginning at Fairmont State College in 1948 with a membership of twenty-three World War II veterans.

The club's main function is to develop attributes of the Industrial Arts technology beyond class activities, and bring together those involved in Industrial Arts education, and their ideals and philosophies. All majors and minors of Industrial Arts Technology are eligible for membership.

Home Economics Club

The Fairmont State College Home Economics Club's membership is open to those students who are majors and minors in the field of Home Economics. The F.S.C. chapter-club is associated with the American Home Economics Association. The purposes of the club are to acquaint the members with opportunities in the field of home economics, and to give the home ec. students a chance to get acquainted.

Each year the club sponsors a trip to Pittsburgh, has a guest speaker from a foreign country at one of its meetings, sponsors a Career Luncheon in February, attends the State Home Economics Convention at Jackson's Mills and sends a Care package overseas.

DeVito, Gladys Fantkem, Mary Davis Marlene Lindquist, Katherine Kipfinger, Karen McClain, Sandra Linn, Daryl Stanley, Nina Villers.

Fu-Se-Fa

This organization was founded in 1948 by Marjorie Hun-singer and Regis Larken on this campus. The Future Secretaries of Fairmont are more familiarly known as "Fu-Se-Fa." The purpose is to provide those students majoring in secretarial studies with an organization in their field of study. The group ventures on field trips through various business establishments.

Fu-Se-Fa is exceptionally active, and it sponsors many other activities throughout the school year, such as: Freshman Coke Party, Christmas Wrapping Party, St. Patrick's Day Dinner, High School Commercial Day, Senior Luncheon, and Annual Trip to Pittsburgh.

MENC

The Music Educators National Conference consists of students who have a major or minor in music and members of the faculty. To better the understanding of music education through a varied and enlightening program of activities is the goal of the group.

During the year the students aid the Fairmont Concert Association in their productions, sponsor the appearance of guest artists at the college, participates and helps produce student recitals, help choose the outstanding senior and freshman music students, and assist at music festivals or workshops sponsored by the music department.

Pi Kappa Phi

Pi Kappa Phi, originally limited to those students in the field of Spanish, found a need for an organization to include all students in all foreign languages. Today qualifications for membership include: one semester of a foreign language with a C average; two years of high school language; or one who fluently speaks a foreign language. Annually the club holds a language fest for area high school students, a language club exhibit, and annual picnic and Christmas party.

PI KAPPA PHI: FIRST ROW: Frank DeMaria (Chaplain), Larry Morris (Pledge Master), Mary Frances Simon (President), Peggy Goldsmith (Treasurer), Rosemary Stromberg (Sgt. of Arms). SECOND ROW: Barbara Wilt, Anna

Nurses

For several years the Fairmont General Hospital School of Nursing has maintained an affiliation with Fairmont State College. In past years, up to and including this year, the student nurses complete two semesters at the college and two full years of official practice and schooling at the hospital. Starting in the fall of 1964, the school of nursing will join as a part of the school. The subjects studied include biology, English, nutrition, physical science, psychology, and sociology.

The School of Nursing is approved by the American College of Surgeons and the American Medical Association. It is also accredited by the West Virginia State Board of Examiners for Registered Nurses and the National League for Nursing.

Women's Physical Education Club

The purpose of this long standing organization of the college is to promote leadership in the field of physical education. The club sponsors an outstanding hockey clinic for the college of the state during the season, provides funds for women to participate in the Pittsburgh field hockey events, and sponsors a basketball clinic and a spring playday for the area high schools. The new freshmen are introduced to the club with a coke party, and an annual Christmas Party is held for its active members.

Organization of this club came about in 1924 as the Women's Recreation Association; and in 1948, under the auspices of Miss Walters, the W.R.A. was changed to the present title.

Carter (Secretary), Larry Thampson (President), Jim Falkenstein, Carl Beverlin, Lyle Anderson, Richard Steele, Rev. Richard Bowyer (Advisor).

Wesley Foundation

The Methodist Student Movement at Fairmont State College is one of the dynamic groups which serves a real purpose. The Foundation is located at the foot of the campus at 1105 Locust Avenue. It serves all Methodists on campus of which there are about 500. The Wesley Foundation provides an opportunity for students to worship, study, and discuss in a Christian and intellectual setting. The Foundation presents a wide variety of programs and speakers for the interest of all students. It also gives a student a chance to serve; especially in its new "Big Brother and Big Sister Program."

Baptist Student Fellowship

The Baptist Student Fellowship was granted recognition as a Campus organization in 1960-61. It is a member of the National Baptist Youth Movement, the West Virginia Baptist Youth Convention, and the Campus Ecumencial Movement. BSF is sponsored by the Fairmont Baptist Association, yet it is open for membership to students of any faith. This Baptist Student Fellowship helps students to find a new church home away from home. Advisors are Wayne Gregg and Wesley Ryals. Meetings are held on Sunday nights except during vacations and finals.

BAPTIST STUDENT FELLOWSHIP: FIRST ROW: Wesley Ryals, Advisor; Delores Coldwell, Secretary-Treasurer; Wayne Gregg, Advisor; Lindo

Caoper, Danna Finley, Tensil Tennant, President; Rev. Edward J. Dreisinger, Beth Brand, 1st Vice-President; Jock Conrad, 2nd Vice-President.

Newman Club

The Newman Club was originally organized in 1893 by five students at the University of Pennsylvania. The actual purpose of the Newman Club is "to deepen the spiritual and enrich the temporal lives of its members through a balanced program of religious, intellectual and social activities." (Federation Constitution 1942).

The club is especially proud of its new house located on Locust Avenue, (opposite Wesley Foundation). The ultimate goal is to enrich the Catholic lives of its members and to develop acquaintances and activities between Catholic college students.

Inter-Varsity Fellowship

A new organization on our campus, the Inter-Varsity Fellowship, gives students an opportunity to share a few minutes of their busy day in worship. Each day at 12:00 the Fellowship meets and spends time in meditation and sharing. It also sponsors vesper services and Bible studies in the dorms.

Young Democrats

The sole purpose of the Young Democrats is to enable college students to become familiar with a basic understanding of present day politics and to introduce newcomers to the Democratic party. The organization also provides social activities for the purpose of making and introducing new friends.

Young Republicans

College students should have a basic understanding of domestic politics and the Young Republicans have taken the task of creating better and more complete view in national affairs. Social activities provide for a complete assortment of interest for new college students.

Petitto, Kenneth Miller, Douglas Groy, Jahn Thralls, David Frum, John C. McNoy, Danial K. Weber, Don Marris, Linda Ashcroft, Linda Tims, Shirley Pierce, Don McBee, Tensil Tennont.

Editors Page

In the 1964 MOUND we have tried to give you a pictorial and biographical history of the Fairmont State College we have watched develop during this year. At this time I would like to formally thank the people who have helped make the 1964 MOUND possible. The following deserve special recognition.

Jay Tennant, Business Manager, whose ability and leadership made the MOUNDS a financial success.

Dr. Kenneth Weihe, Literary Editor, whose imagination and talent in creative writing was an all important factor in the presentation of the true story of Fairmont State College.

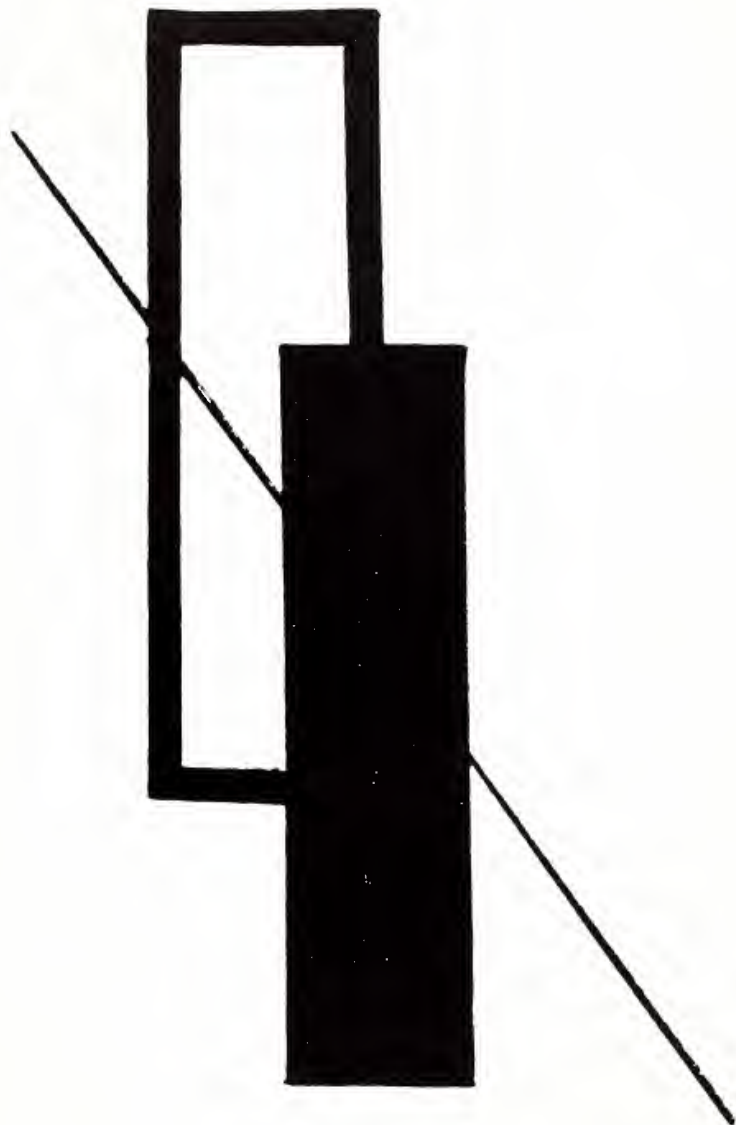

Dave Springer and Bill Pulice, Photographers, whose never ending patience brought forth this past year's history in sparkling fashion.

Earl N. Straight, faculty advisor, for his guidance and assistance.

Mike Posey of American Yearbook Company, publishers of the MOUND, who more than anyone else is responsible for the success of our book.

Respectfully yours,
Tensil Kay Tennant
Editor

GREEKS

Sometimes it is easy to think that the only thing "classical" in the lives of a good many college students is membership in Greek letter societies, so far from their origin in Plato, Zeno, and Aristotle has their latter-day mystique developed. There is a very serious concern for creditable or high scholastic standing, yes (they are embedded in colleges and universities); but there is so very much more. And more of this "more" is the very part and parcel of young men and women (and their older guides and mentors) in schools of higher learning in America today, at least so far as formal and informal socializing go.

Odd it is, and odd it is not, that Greek letters became attached to our fraternity and sorority organizations. For it was by mere chance that the oldest and most illustrious of them all — Phi Beta Kappa — was named with Greek letters, though in 1776 in the College of William and Mary there was enough of the Greek spirit in the curriculum to make the choice a natural if not an inevitable one. And although it began as a social club, it wore its Hellenic emblem with a proper pride, as all successive chapters and members have done. And although the first fraternity men could not have had the wildest surmise that their little club would be the progenitor of the immense college world of the "Greeks," they invented the very features which have helped to make the mystique of fraternity and sorority life so fascinating and so vigorously self-perpetuating: a ritual with secret obligations, a motto, a badge, and — of course! — a grip. And by a delightful little irony, a sort of Olympian irony which would cause the gods to laugh, the names of three of the original five fraternity men were Smith and Jones!

It is then stretching things too absurdly to say that if Plato and Zeno were to have been college students in America any time after 1776 they would have joined a Greek letter society? Would they not have applied the Grip, sworn eternal loyalty and helpfulness, sung some "Sweetheart of Sigma Chi" ditty to their club's current queen, gone in for grades and scholastic honors, worked until dawn to get a float ready for a Homecoming Day parade?

Certainly there is much to justify these societies if they are managed well and adhere to the best in college life. In practical as well as personally mystical terms, members derive great and sustaining satisfactions in being chosen (for one thing), in being imbued with that kind of group cohesiveness which makes for deep fellowship, in feeling secure from the world's threats (an assault upon one is an assault upon all), in feeling cosily "secret" (and in ways that more and more nowadays help the individual and the college than do them harm). The Panhellenic and Interfraternity councils see to that in rather amazingly effective ways.

Could Plato and Aristotle have known! The intricate "rushing," the pledging, the parties, the sings, the teas, the dances, the cake sales for charity, the rites and rituals, the attainments in mental and manual skill, the mystic love of one who belongs for another who belongs — these, and more, do our Greek letter clubs exist to give.

CAMPUS LIFE

Custom cannot stale the infinite variety of campus life as practiced in these times, and it is intense and propulsive, filling the year, and the years, with such an amount of all-embracing endeavor as to make almost everything else in the world seem heavy-footed and/or banal. There is absolutely nothing else in the world like the whim and whirr and whirl and wham and whither-bound of a college campus.

Take ours, for example.

Almost dawn-early on any week-day morning, summer or winter, lines of book-toting pedestrians and revved-up motors climb what it is not hard to imagine as a sort of local Mt. Olympus, where the Muses in contemporary garb are ready in classrooms to "sing" and prompt the memory of history, epic poetry, sacred poetry, comedy, astronomy, and a catalogue of other nurtures for body, mind, and spirit. Here is something basic, solid — the moment of truth for student and teacher alike, as they, like those once daily assembled in the great hall of Jupiter, converse of the affairs of heaven and earth. Off go some to the gym, where calisthenics and sports monumental quiet, the printed accounts of this best and worst of all possible worlds awaits their enquiry.

Off go still others, early or late, to the Student Center, where, as if it were a Day Club, socializing of unimaginable varieties is practiced over coffee and cokes — animated sip-and-chat about everything from who's-just-cut-whom to the exact relationship between Freud and Henry Miller.

Some go to practice for upcoming band and choral concerts, for glee club trips. Play practice calls a colorful and talented group: much measuring up here is obligatory, for FSC is renowned for the excellence of its dramatic productions. Over there is a brain-and-courage ensemble sharpening debating skills. If there is informal speech in the Big Nickel, there is a pretty fair sort of formal speech in this corner of Olympus.

Very special occasions involving Very Special People draw a major portion of the hill population to assemblies, where lectures presented, from "Teahouse of the August Moon" to a speech by a noted college president from Bethany. Conferences of many interests throughout the year. And committee work engaging practically everyone, goes on apace.

The close-packed drama in the dorms, the dances and their queens, the Homecoming affairs, the athletic contests, the sorority-and-fraternity planning and Living-After-the-Fashion, the eat-and-run cafeteria routine, the wonderful vacation dashes, the glorious WE'VE MADE IT! graduation times — all these and many a many more comprise what can be rough and tough and giddy and goodly and sad and glad, a way of living like nothing else — campus living at FSC!

"Belle Lamar"

General "Stonewall" Jackson walked among the West Virginia hills again when the Tawn and Gown summer theatre presented the spy drama. Actor David Harbert is remindful of Jackson in manner and appearance and theatre-goers young and old enjoyed seeing him re-create Jackson.

"A corporal's guard is lodged there now!" — as Mount Lamar, an 1863 Virginia plantation is occupied by Union troops in "Belle Lamar."

"THE BIRTH OF A NATION" — Movie Queen Lillian Gish, shown here in one of Hollywood's earliest publicity shots, was the leading lady in the 1915 silent film epic shown July 11, 12, 13. As a Centennial gift to the residents of the Upper Merangahela Valley, the film was shown free through the auspices of the Tawn and Gawn Summer Theater.

COMIC SCENE FROM PLAY! — "I don't think you should be here," ventures a worried Don McBee to a very much at-home Penny Sestitia in one of the comic scenes from the zany "Come Blow Your Horn."

'The Four Preps'

"The Four Preps," nationally famed recording unit, appeared February 17, 1964 in the West Fairmont Auditorium. Brought here through the efforts of the Student-Faculty program committee of Fairmont State College. Their first record, "Dreamy Eyes," was a success in 1957, but their million-selling "26 Miles" made them national celebrities in 1958. Soon to follow was "Big Man" which almost overtook "26 Miles" and helped snag The Preps' recognition as "Most Promising Vocal Group" of 1958 in the Cash Box Magazine poll.

There have been other hits — "Down by the Station," "Big Surprise," "Lazy Summer Night," "Got a Girl," and "Cinderella," proving that The Preps are as popular as ever with the crowd.

By mid-summer of 1961, when their smash album, THE FOUR PREPS ON CAMPUS, became a national best-seller, it was apparent that The Preps had smoothly matriculated to college and adult. Equally as entertaining and successful was their follow-up "in person" album CAMPUS ENCORE. In their brief career they've appeared on Ed Sullivan's show four times, Ernie Ford six times, Ozzie and Harriet, another six, and Dick Clark's show 14 times — perhaps a record.

The Lazy Summer Days Are Gone, the School Year 1963-64 Was Underway . . .

You approach Fairmont State College with mixed emotions — eagerness for independence, excitement at the thought of new friends, a little fear at the challenges that await you, a little anxiety over taking the steps from home and high school to dormitory and college.

THE FSC YEARS OF YOUR LIFE . . . will provide you with opportunities for growth that are yours to command. They will give you the chance to mature. You will emerge from this experience able to prove your own capabilities.

Departing from the traditional five-day program of Freshman Orientation, this year's activities encompassed nearly five months of scheduled events designed to inform and fully prepare new students for four years of college life.

Planned and directed by the office of Student Personnel in conjunction with the Student Council, the needs and requirements of both the college and the individual student.

On Tuesday evening, the annual capping ceremonies and torch-light parade was one of the most picturesque of the week-long activities.

. . . And Suddenly It Was Homecoming

Colorful floats, traditional sports rivalry and a gala ball tapped the list of activities planned for the 96th annual Homecoming Weekend at Fairmont State College.

Coordinated for the enjoyment of both alumni and students, the festivities began at 7 p.m. Friday, October 25, in downtown Fairmont with a colorful Parade of Floats. Over 20 floats were used as Parade Marshal Robert Holl led the procession.

Winning floats were displayed on Rosier Field during the Homecoming Football Game when FSC met Glenville State College at 2 p.m. on Saturday. The game followed a soccer match between FSC and Glenville which was scheduled at 12:45 on the new athletic field above the stadium.

Alumni of the college were special guests at an informal reception in the Carol Room of the Student Center preceding the traditional Homecoming Banquet. Kenneth Miller, president of the Student Council gave a brief welcome to the alumni, after which addresses were given by Dr. Eston K. Foster, president of FSC, and Elmus Snaderley, president of the FSC Loan Foundation, Inc.

Robert L. Heffner, president of the Alumni Association, presided at the business session following the banquet, introduced the speakers, guests, and presided at the election of officers.

Coronation of the 1963 Homecoming Queen, Sheila Pae, climaxed the weekend's activities. The gala Ball was held in the Student Center from 9 p.m. until midnight.

F.S.C. Band and Choirs

The Fairmont State College Band, under the direction of Wesley Gragson, is composed of forty-six members. The band performed at ball games and participated in parades during the school year. A concert composed of modern music was presented in February. The band also made tours to various surrounding high schools.

Collegiates, under the direction of Miss Frances Moody of the Department of Fine Arts, was selected on the basis of a tape recording to sing during opening week at the West Virginia Pavilion at the New York World's Fair. The choir is made up of 28 select voices who try out for the privilege of participating. During the year they appeared on radio and television in the area. The group also performed in the Rotunda of the Senate Building in Washington, D.C. while on tour.

FSC's CENTENNIAL CHORUS — The select group of voices from the music department of Fairmont State College is known as the FSC Centennial Chorus. They have appeared on many programs over the state in their original Centennial costumes under the direction of Richard P. Wellock and Joy Robinson.

SPORTS

Always there is a special kind of largeness in the world of sports, whether it be in the outside world or in college. This largeness connotes much more than stadia and gymnasia filled with thousands of ardent spectators totally responding to every move of athletically accomplished Youth. The play of mind and muscle, the mastery and domination of will, the instinctive, split-second decision to make the right move or movement, the serene courage in putting a fine body through maneuvers quite foreign to it normally, the dextrous doings with balls (mostly) or javelins or rings or discusses or pucks, or horses, or bulls or steers, or boxing gloves, or water courses, trapezes or tracks — all these show (to parody James Joyce) a Portrait of a Young Body as an Artist.

But initially and exclusively a young man (or woman, though of course not so often) has nothing to do with cheering throngs or intently admiring spectators. At first the largeness required is unremitant self-mastery in training. Practice, practice, practice. Not only practice: behind all is a vision of what the athlete wants to have his musculature do. Behind all is that subtle learning of one's accomplishment potential, one's readiness to do. It is more than nerve; it is thorough understanding of oneself. Otherwise, how could a superb skier dare to sweep down the terrifyingly steep jump platform, arching out into space with arms flung birdwise aloft above the tiny spectator dots in the snow below? Otherwise how could a young man from a country high school find it in him to throw the long pass that wins the game for dear old Siwash? Otherwise — other-wise —

In the deepest sense it is the artist who alone can appreciate in totality the subtle achievements of his genius. It is so with the artist as athlete. He knows what he has had to do to attain his fascinating dexterity; he knows what dreadful victories he has had to win over his own sluggishness and sloth; he knows his own largeness (and few can ever have a knowledge of that knowledge).

The great professional athletes command the world's admiring notice, for they have reached to perfection or close to it. They say beautifully with their bodies what others say beautifully with their minds and tongues. In college the attaining athletes are equally admirable, and for the traits mentioned. They add the indispensable factor to the college equation, as did the Greeks, who could not think of the activity of mind as being rightly isolated from trained activity of the body.

In the following pages, then, the editors of The Mound record the largeness of accomplishment in the year's athletic programs, displaying, in arrested motion, those Worthies who were artists in the various sports which our college is able to follow.
